New separate school possible in county

By Janice Harrington

A separate school operation may be set up to run in the county as soon as this September.

Advocates of the private school, which would use the Academic Team (AT) learning program for high school students, have decided to go further with plans to start a separate school in Olds after a proposal to start an AT charter school under the jurisdiction of the County of Mountain View Board of Education was turned down by the Board last Wednesday.

Tom Craven, former principal of the Olds High School, said a parent steering committee was in favor of opening the AT school this fall in order to promote continuity for students already involved with the program.

"The AT program has been operating in the Olds High School for about 3 years and one of the reasons we want to put it into a separate establishment was because it just doesn't work well with the traditional school principles," Craven said. "There is a fundamental difference."

The AT program is an alternative education program which helps students gain provincially required education for their high school diplomas through self-directed learning. Craven said the program allows students to choose their own courses and time tables, and uses teachers as facilitators rather than lecturers.

"A student doesn't have to put in 125 hours to obtain 5 credits," he said. "It's up to them. They could take 40 hours or 200 hours to finish the course."

Craven and Norbert Salamon, a parent with children in the OHS AT program said the push to get an AT school started this fall stems from the loss of two of the OHS AT instructors.

"I don't think the kids will be able to adjust to a completely new set of instructors," said

Salamon. "It's just too much for them, especially when these instructors have put in so much time in learning about the program. The people involved are integral, you can't separate the school and the teachers."

The teachers Salamon refers to are Jim Moreau and Barry Stephenson. Both instructed under the AT program and both are not expected to return to employment with the school board this fall. No reason for the parting has been given.

But the county school board does not agree that the loss of these teachers will fundamentally change the AT program as it is offered at OHS.

"Why would this operate better in a separate school rather than what's already there," said trustee Murray Snyder. "Especially when we still have one very capable teacher continuing with the program?"

While stating they were in favor of continuing and perhaps expanding the AT program at the OHS, the board said they would not be rushed into making a decision on creating a charter school.

"It takes time to sit down and figure out the implications of this sort of proposal," said Superintendent Shirley Van Eaton. "We haven't had the chance to study what a charter school would mean. That's all we were asking for."

But Craven said the AT advocate group would not be giving the board more time to study the proposal.

"We went to the superintendency in January to request this," he said. "And it's taken from then until now for an evaluation to be done. We feel the staff is an important part of this program because of their philosophical background in methodology. We won't be presenting this proposal again."

More word on the creation of the new school is expected later this month.

Beautiful day for a parade

The Didsbury Agricultural Fair kicked off Saturday with an annual parade. Hundreds of spectators lined Didsbury's main streets to take in the colorful event which was graced by hot, sunny weather. For more pictures on the parade and the rest of the rodeo and fair, see inside.

At The Kitchen Table

Kate, our niece/godchild, is at camp this week. "Camp" when I was a kid was an all-girl activity involving rustic cabins at Gull Lake, a lot of water activity, maybe a craft session or two and quite a bit of singing around the campfire if it didn't rain really hard. "Camp" now can centre around almost anything, and whatever your child's interest you can probably find a camp that fits the need. The one that Kate is attending is one of the specialized variety. It's Trollhaugen Culture Camp sponsored by The Sons of Norway and participants are learning Norwegian language, history, crafts and culture. There will be instruction in folk dance, hardanger, language, ethnic cooking, rosemaling and chip carving. It's a successful program and Kate has phoned home to say that she loves it and will be sorry when it's over.

I loved the camps that I attended, too. I was a shy farm kid and it was a wonderful experience for me. I went with my best friend Joy who got terribly homesick and wrote her Mother a postcard to come and get her. She wanted the postcard sent airmail and no one could convince her that there was no air-mail service between Gull Lake and Ponoka a distance of about 25 miles. Joy insisted that she wanted it sent airmail and the counsellor finally said O.K. they would wait for a plane and send her letter on it. Joy waited for the plane too and while she was waiting she started having such a good time that she tore up the postcard. When we had our lessons on survival and what to do if lost in the woods, the instructor told Joy to face north with her back to the south and "now" he said, "what's on your left hand." Joy thought for a minute and then she said, "fingers."

I know there will be singing at Kate's camp and I know that some of the songs will be ethnic. I hope they learn the Norwegian National Anthem, Ja Vi Elsker Dette Landet, and I hope they learn Paul and His Chickens and the very beautiful Sailor's Song. It's a little early for Deck The Halls With Lefse Slices but they will probably do the Lefse song that begins, "The Lefse's round with spots of brown. Oh yah you betcha, uff da!" And they will probably do, "Lutefisk, O Lutefisk, how fragrant your aroma,

Lutefisk, O Lutefisk, you put me in a coma
You smell so strong, you look like glue
You taste just like an overshoe
But Lutefisk, come Saturday
I think I'll eat you anyway."

Since these are second, third and even fourth generation Canadian kids, I'm sure they will sing lots of traditional Canadian/American camp songs as well and I hope somebody leads them in such old favorites as Fires Burning, Kum By Yah, On Top of Old Smoky and Long Long Trail.

Those last two come with wildly various lyrics, I guess most of the old favorites come with altered lyrics. Have you heard Hang Your Head Over as, "Down in the Valley, the valley so low, hang your head over and suck your big toe?" Or Long Long Trail as, "There's a long green worm awinding across the roof of my tent." There is also My Wild Irish Nose, and of course Don't You Call Me Sweetheart, and When You Come to The End of a Lollipopland you sit alone with the stick, etc.

I hope they don't do 99 Bottles of Beer on the Wall. I always thought that one lacked both class and imagination but She'll Be Comin Round The Mountain is tolerable as is Old McDonald Had a Farm and they will have a big enough group to do justice to the rounds; Three Blind Mice, Row Row Row Your Boat and Are You Sleeping Brother John. That last one I know comes in French and German. I have never heard it in Norwegian.

I remember singing "Love I am Homely, My Nose is long/that's not the only thing that is wrong..." and "Do Your Ears Hang Low? do they wobble to and fro? Can you tie em in a knot? Can you tie em in a bow?"

I hope they do Clementine and for the sake of their Canadian heritage This Land Is Your Land and Four Strong Winds. Mostly I guess I'm hoping that Kate learns something that will deepen her cultural awareness and give her some of the experiences that memories are made of.

And of course I'm glad that she hasn't tried to send her Mother an air-mail letter begging to come home.

Rodeo and fair well attended

By Janice Harrington

The Didsbury Kinsmen Rodeo and Agricultural Fair was greeted with excellent weather for its three day run last weekend.

Fair organizer Gord Krebs said he was pleased with the crowds who turned out of this year's bench show and other fair attractions.

"I think things went pretty well," he said. "I know the pet show was successful. We had alot of participation and the kids really seemed to love it. Some of them stayed around all day."

Other events, besides the bench show, included a farrier display by staff from Olds College, a 4-H show, various children's games and miniature golf.

Bob Davidson, bench show organizer for the Didsbury Agricultural Society was also pleased by the numbers drawn for the bench show competition. Davidson said both entries and spectators were up.

"We had about 108 exhibitors," Davidson said. "It's pretty tough to count the total number of entries, but I'd guess it's around 700-800."

Results of the bench show competition are as follows:

Business sponsored awards - Flowers and Fun gladiola bouquet: Bella Taylor; Flowers and Fun garden bouquet: Bella Taylor; Royal Lepage sweet pea arrangement: Dianna Taylor; Bob Davidson gifts of the garden open class: Eva Page; Don Thompson iced angel food cake: Jacki Easy; Parkland Agri Services black forest cake: Margaret Youngs; Ray Lea apple pie special: Maxine Ollech; Dick's Auto Service lemon pie special: Margaret Youngs; Pasu Farms creative arts: Jean McCulloch.

Junior Classes - Treasury Branch gifts of the garden: Bobbi McGee; Marg Northcott lunch box special: Jacque Whitely; Shirley Thompson pan of squares: Betina Regner; Annie Pringle best yard: Lawrence & Jeanette Hunter.

This year's Kinsmen Foot-hills Cowboys Association Rodeo was also successful. Rodeo organizer Ron Sweetman said attendance was well past normal for Saturday's performance, and receipts from admission and liquor sales from the rodeo dance look like they will surpass total expenses.

"I'm still waiting for all the bills to come in," said Sweetman.

"But things do look good."

Sweetman said construction around the area did cause some distractions for the event, mostly because of the lack of washroom facilities.

"From a health point of view it just wasn't acceptable," he said. "For the washrooms to be broken down in the arena and for 1,000 people to have to use the portables, I would have thought the town would have been more concerned."

Sweetman said about 220 cowboys from all around took part in this year's rodeo. Results can be found on the sports page.

Both the Kinsmen and the Ag Society said the success of this and past rodeos and fairs is due to the help of individuals and organizations who volunteered their time and efforts.

Curling blindness goal for Lions

By Janice Harrington

Helping the world to see has become a very important issue for local Lions Club member Ed Vermunt.

Vermunt, Past District Governor, is now the southern Alberta Chairman of the Lions Clubs International Foundation SightFirst program and is working hard to get the SightFirst message out.

"What this program is for is to cure 80% of world blindness," Vermunt said. "And we are trying to raise $130 million U.S. by 1994 to do it."

The Lions Clubs International Foundation launched the SightFirst program in 1990 with the goal of preventing and treating blindness in developing countries around the world. To date, SightFirst has sponsored all sorts of operations, established eye care centres and national eye health care programs.

"We have a big program going on right now for river blindness," Vermunt said. "We have doctors and ophthalmologists working in places along the Amazon and in Africa to stop preventable blindness. River blindness can be cured by just administering a couple of vitamin A tablets a month. It's a worm from the water that causes the blindness. It's very common but can be treated."

But the work of SightFirst is not limited to eye health in developing nations. Vermunt said Didsbury even has joined the program allowing people to donate their corneas so others can see.

"Anyone who wishes to donate can contact the Lions anytime day or night," he said. "We have the means to take the cornea and transfer it to the Rockyview Hospital in Calgary."

But raising money to help these types of projects is key to the successful completion of the Lions' goal. The Foundation estimate that the $130 million goal can be reached if every club holds two fundraisers a year.

Vermunt said Didsbury is working hard to help fulfill that goal. Their fundraisers are held all the time and include things like the Mother's Day pancake breakfast and, more recently, running the concession at the Kinsmen's Rodeo.

"We have always got things going to raise money around here," Vermunt said.

For more information about the SightFirst program, call Ed Vermunt at 335-8550.

The Residential Tenancies Act

Alberta's landlords and tenants recently acquired new rights and responsibilities under the province's Residential Tenancies Act, an amended version of the Landlord and Tenant Act. The amended legislation applies to residential tenancies only. Some of the major changes are outlined below.

*The amended legislation offers an expanded definition of residential tenancy. The law now covers permanent hotel residents with over six months' tenancy and tenants in rooming houses.

*Landlords can no longer give tenants a three-month notice of termination without reason. Notice of termination can only be given for specific reasons outlined in the Residential Tenancies Act and its regulations.

*Landlords cannot evict tenants for exercising their rights under the Residential Tenancies Act or for making a complaint under this act or the Public Health Act.

*Tenants have more privacy. The amended legislation limits the times when a landlord can enter a tenant's home for reasons other than an emergency. A landlord cannot enter on a holiday or on a tenant's regular day of worship. On other days, a landlord can enter a tenant's home without permission, but after giving proper notice, only between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

*Security deposits are now protected. Landlords must keep all security deposits collected on or after August 1, 1992, and accrued interest, in trust accounts.

*The legislation now includes this definition of normal wear and tear: "The deterioration that occurs over time with the use of the premises even though the premises receive reasonable care and maintenance."

*Landlords cannot claim for damages against a security deposit unless they complete accommodation inspections at the beginning and at the end of a tenancy. This applies to tenancies starting on or after August 1, 1992.

*The amended legislation limits the frequency of rent increases. The frequency depends on the type of tenancy agreement in place. For example, in the case of a month-to-month tenancy agreement, there must

Fundraising ride planned

Plans are set for a fundraising ride this weekend to raise money for the Mount View Handicapped Riding Association.

The ride, which is a poker rally, will cost $20 per rider and includes a B.B.Q. lunch.

Ride organizer Bev Archer said riders will have to find their way to 5 points around Keith Charlton's acreage (use of which was donated for the event) and collect playing cards. The rider with the best hand at the end of the ride wins.

A number of prizes have been donated by local businesses.

The fun starts at 11 a.m. Saturday, August 22. Participants are asked to pre-register by calling 337-2950, 337-3522 or 556-7922.

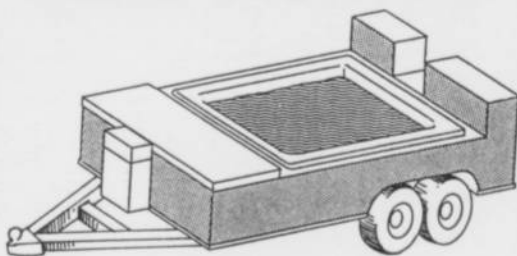

The Association works to allow handicapped people the chance to learn to ride and to compete in regional horse shows.

OPINIONS/EDITORIAL

What's the rush?

By Janice Harrington

While the creation of a new school to offer an alternative form of education for high school students may seem like a good idea—I'm a little confused by the desperate rush to get it started.

Already students are being served by the Academic Team program at the Olds High School, and regardless of whether or not the instructors remain the same—the student's needs are being met.

With the rush to start this school, who is the most important consideration? Is it the student (as you would assume it should be) or is it the teachers who would appear to be out of jobs unless the school is started this September?

Starting a new school is a risk and I have to agree with the school board's decision to ask for time to more carefully examine the implications of pulling students out of the regular high school and placing them in a separate facility. While the students may face some difficulties trying to balance their involvement in the AT program with their traditional schooling, they are far better off in that situation than if a new school is started on the spur of the moment and then it collapses due to any number of considerations.

I have no doubt advocates of the separate AT school have thoroughly examined the facts they have, but do they understand how a new school would impact on the rest of the county's school system, especially when the school board is already struggling to keep existing programs alive in light of budgetary problems?

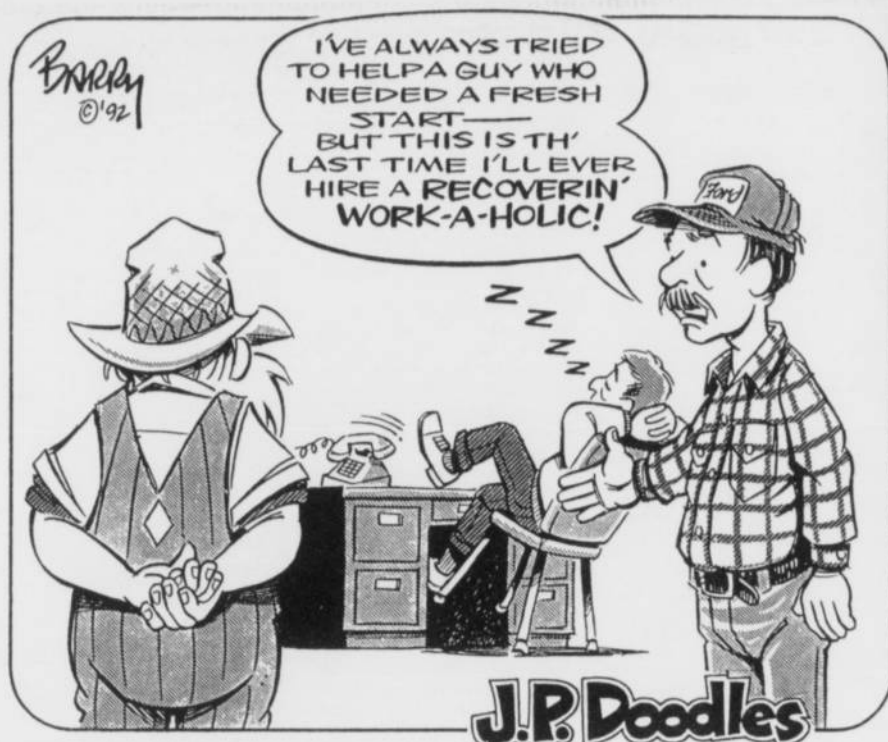

But in spite of my concern over the rush to start this program, I also do not agree with the school board's reaction to the proposal. Comments by County Reeve John Grimstead seem to have turned this into more of a personality conflict between the board and Tom Craven. The board should not have closed the door on this proposal. Now rather than ask for compromise, they have made the AT group turn their backs, and created the very situation they had hoped to avoid, a rushed opening of a new school.

Quote of the week:

"At 9 lbs. 2 ozs., she's just a little smaller than Tammy." School board chairman Dave Derksen, comparing his new granddaughter to Olds trustee Tammy Pederman.

Golf problems in Didsbury

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my disgust at the assault my family received at the Didsbury Golf Course, and the management unfairness and disrespect regarding it. It will be a long time (if ever) before I golf in Didsbury again.

We were enjoying a leisurely round of golf on a quiet Monday morning, teaching my two young children the game of golf. There were no other golfers on the course when we began, and approximately 8 other groups of 1, 2 or 3 golfers following later. We went as a group of 5 (3 adults, 2 children) and regularly stopped to let faster parties play through.

On the 9th hole, a very brash and arrogant golfer and his wife yelled "we're coming through" forcing us to run for safety. He then proceeded to insult us about our lack of consideration by holding him up (an exaggerated lie) and that we were not playing by the rules. He then proceeded to hit one of our balls that was in active play until we challenged him. Finally, he complained to the golf course management. When we completed our game, the golf course management sided with the rude individual and chastised us. Management said that this other individual was a member, and we were just "guests" (i.e. unimportant), although one member of our party was a 30 year supporting member of the golf club. Management was upset about our playing a group of 5 "against the rules," but ignored the "breaking of the rules" and bad etiquette of his "preferred member."

Let me explain my issues in more detail: I ask—what is worse? A person that is rude, disturbs the peaceful game, takes an active ball of other players, endangers the safety of others OR a person that plays a group of five which is . . . well, it's just against the rules, that's all?

The rude golfer broke the rules by not "waiting for us to signal him through" thereby endangering my family. He also disrupted our game by trying to take one of our golf balls that was active and in play. Finally, he disturbed the peaceful atmosphere of golf by shouting verbal abuse. This golfer refused to team up with others. All this from a golfer that is not a resident of Didsbury, and has not been a member of the golf club for very long.

We played a group of 5, which was technically wrong, but reasonable given the circumstances (quiet day, small kids). Management did not say anything about this when we paid and started our game. Management even offered that the "max group of 4" rule was flexible, and that by checking first, relaxation would be granted if circumstances permit.

When management backed the rude member as being "a member," while we're just guests," we challenged that remark that one of our party is a member. The response: "then she should have known better."

We were also accused of taking too long to finish the game, but we were slow because we let 5 parties play through. If we hadn't done this kind act, we would have finished on time. Also, these other 5 parties were of groups of 1 and 2 golfers each. No one was interested in teaming up into groups of 4 to maximize course efficiency. When I mentioned to the management "what if I didn't let them pass through," he replied: "that's considered poor golf etiquette and I won't let you play on my course!" Thus, he does agree that good golf etiquette and manners are important, but not to the rude "preferred member." Had we been a group of 4, we still would have been the slowest party since there were no other groups of 4 on the course that day.

Most courses have learned the meaning behind the rule "no more than 4 in a group" and encourage all groups to be a full group of 4. Simple mathematics prove these numbers: you can maximize course throughput by playing parties of 4. However, parties of 5 are the second most efficient, parties of 3 are third, parties of 2 are fourth, and parties of 1 are least efficient (permitting only half the number of players through the course on a given day over parties of 4). According to the rules and to management, groups of one's are allowed but not fives. Does this make sense? If we had broken into 2 groups, we would not have

Report from the Legislature

Progress Made At Halifax Meeting Of Agriculture Ministers
Hon. Roy Brassard, MLA
Olds-Didsbury Constituency

Alberta Agriculture Minister Ernie Isley and Associate Minister Shirley McClellan recently attended a three-day meeting with other federal and provincial agriculture ministers in Halifax, Nova Scotia. During these meetings, advances were made in several important areas which will see major progress made in the coming months.

The meetings centered mainly around transportation issues. A major development occurred when all provinces agreed with the federal government to participate in the formation of a comprehensive transportation policy that will remove price distortions while protecting the current level of agriculture benefits, encourages development of the Western Canada agri-food industry and removes barriers to investment.

Not only were the provinces able to agree on the process to address these issues, but they also agreed to set implementation timelines at their next fall meeting. This brings Alberta and the rest of Canada one step closer to a balanced and thorough transportation policy.

The other main area of discussion at the meeting was agriculture safety net programs. The Ministers agreed on the need to bridge between existing safety net programs and future programs more in tune with international trade developments. The agriculture ministers discussed widening the focus of the Net Income Stabilization Program (NISA) to include other commodities. Toward this end, an agreement was made for inclusion of non-edible horticultural crops under NISA for 1991, and future consideration for red meats.

The Alberta Government is continuing to work with producers, other provinces and the federal government to improve NISA. Special attention is being given to improving its tax position. Ministers at the Halifax meeting agreed to look at the potential for allowing producer contributions to be written down as farm expenses, which would make withdrawals subject to taxation as farm income. The safety net programs will continue to be a topic of discussion as we move toward an all-embracing program in cooperation with producers.

Lastly, the provinces will be proceeding with policy reforms in spite of uncertainties in the international situation. Numerous trade opportunities will open up in a post-GATT marketplace and the Alberta Government will work to ensure that our province's agri-food industry will be poised and ready to compete in such an environment.

Many of the issues discussed in Halifax will see further development in the months ahead. I will continue to keep you posted on developments as they occur.

If you need to contact me, or just want to voice your concerns, please phone the constituency office at 556-3132 or my office in Edmonton at 422-0141 (collect).

Family Quiz--On Canada
Louise Feltham,
Wild Rose M.P.

On Canada's 125th anniversary it is fun to think of questions to ask about our country.

Questions many of us can answer if we just stop to think about them:

1.) How many points are on the Maple Leaf on the Canadian flag?

2.) Which two of Canada's Governor Generals have sports trophies named after them?

Questions for those who love numbers:

3.) What is Canada's population?

4.) What is Canada's size? Questions for animal lovers:

5.) Why are animals--including field mice and canaries--carved over the entrance to the Parliamentary Memorial Chamber?

Questions for the curious:

6.) Who are the young people who sit at the foot of the Speaker's chair in the House of Commons?

And, of course, questions for the history buff:

7.) Who is the Head of State for Canada?

8.) Who was Canada's first Prime Minister?

Questions that are tough:

9.) What military doctor wrote the poem inscribed on the wall of the Memorial Chamber in the Peace Tower?

10.) Why is the mace, carried by the Sergeant-At-Arms, important?

Answers: 1.) 11, 2.) Earl Grey; Lord Stanley, 3.) 27,296,859, 4.) 9,167,204 sq. km., 5.) The little animals warned the soldiers, in the trenches in WWI, of gas attacks, 6.) The Pages are first year university students who run errands for the Members of Parliament, 7.) Queen Elizabeth, 8.) Sir John A. Macdonald, 9.) John McCrae, 10.) It is the symbol of the authority of the House.

New business offers perfect mix

Music and T-shirts may sound like an unlikely combination to some, but entrepreneurs Barry Kivinen and wife Theresa Kalika think their store offers the perfect mix.

Olds Music and T-shirt Company has only been opened a few weeks in the Mountainview Plaza in Olds, and already a string of orders and requests is taking shape.

The patrons come from virtually all sectors of the immediate and surrounding communities. Teams, business organizations, community groups, usually go for the personalized uniforms or silk screened T-shirts while others find the music cassettes, compact discs and instruments appealing.

To Kivinen and Kalika, both originally from Thunder Bay, Ontario, the diverse demands of their new small business operation fits their own individual expertise. "Theresa usually takes care of all the T-shirt orders and silk screening while I look after the music end of things... that's what I do best," Kivinen explains.

Originally a travelling musician in a country band, Kivinen is well-versed in learning to play, and repair, the instruments he has grown to love. "I'll be teaching music lessons here to anyone who may be interested in taking up guitar or mandolin," he says. "Music has always interested me which makes it that much more enjoyable in the long run."

And it's the long run that Kivinen and Kalika are looking for, both in their business, and personal lives. "I just like small towns. People out here are a bit different from back east... they have that friendly Westerner attitude, really down-home."

Mobil operations profiled

Employees from Mobil Oil Canada's Harmattan, Wimborne, and Lone Pine Creek gas plants profiled the company's technical advances and new project initiatives at the Olds Agricultural Fair on August 4 to 6. At the close, company officials drew the names of 13 lucky recipients of the prizes which were offered.

As part of its public consultation program, Harmattan featured its pilot excavation to clean an abandoned landfill near the plant. When the plant was built in the early 1960s, a landfill was dug to bury waste materials and domestic garbage from the community, located about halfway between Olds and Sundre.

During August and September, plans are to dig a small area and sort the materials to determine the best method to clean the rest of the site. On a regular basis, employees will take samples to monitor the soil quality to ensure the separation of clean and contaminated soil. Then during the summers of 1993 and 1994, the entire landfill will be excavated, materials treated and disposed, and the area will be backfilled with topsoil then reseeded.

Wimborne and Lone Pine Creek gas plants highlighted their efforts to meet and usually exceed Alberta's tough air quality standards with their giant steps to reduce the amount of sulphur emitted into the air.

In 1990, Mobil installed North America's first Superclaus-

99 sulphur recovery unit at Lone Pine Creek, east of Carstairs. And in June, the company installed an enhanced, second generation catalyst into the plant. Before Superclaus-99, 95.7% of the hydrogen sulphide (H<sub>2</sub>S) was stripped out of the gas. Now up to 98.8% is extracted. This is a significant breakthrough in sulphur recovery and environmental protection in North America.

As part of its public awareness campaign at the Olds Agricultural Fair, Mobil employees distributed Mobil rulers to the children and Mobil thermometers with Harmattan's 24-hour emergency number on it to the adults.

Mount View Lodge news

By Annie Caugh

Hi all! Well, we're getting some summer weather and it seems we are trying to make the most of it. We have had several "outings" which were really enjoyable.

Quite a number of us visited Grace de Jong on her birthday and enjoyed birthday cake outdoors in her garden. Then a little later Mayor & Mrs. Armstrong invited us to their home for a "Garden Party." It was a super afternoon looking over their lovely garden and then we were treated to a really delicious lunch. You can see we're really spoiled by all the attention but we do thank all who helped with transportation and all the other work involved.

Last week was Fair Week and we were visited by ventriloquist Don Bryan and his "pal" Noseworthy. It was a real fun afternoon. Of course we watched the parade even if it was cool it didn't rain. We had guests from the Carstairs and Sundre lodges to view the parade and then they joined us for dinner. We were able to enjoy the fireworks from the fair grounds from the front of the lodge or from our windows. They were beautiful.

We appreciate so many people sharing the flowers and vegetables from their gardens with us.

In hospital we have Mrs. Shanks, Mrs. Sutherland and Mr. Dawson. Get well soon!

Crime of the week

On July 31, 1992 there was a break, enter, and theft to the Vac Shop in Olds, Alberta. Nine Electrolux, two Filter Queen, two Hoover, and other vacuum cleaners were stolen. It is quite possible that thieves may travel from town to town in an attempt to sell these items.

If you have any information on persons responsible for this break-in or the whereabouts of this stolen property, call Crime Stoppers now at 340-TIPS, that's 340-8477 or call toll free at 1-800-661-TIPS. Through Crime Stoppers your calls are not traced or recorded and you never have to give your name or testify in court. Crime Stoppers will pay up to $2,000 for information leading to the arrest of persons involved in any unsolved crime. Crime Stoppers serves all of Central Alberta.

Olds Fair successful

By Janice Harrington

The Mountain View County Fair organizers are calling this year's fair a success and are planning to meet the to discuss means to make next year's edition even better.

Olds Agricultural Society Treasurer Ernie Bird said his organization, which puts on the fair every year, was pleased with the results.

"The attendance we felt was on par with that from last year," Bird said. "But entries were up.

The livestock and creative arts entries were up considerably."

Bird said the Ag Society was especially pleased with this year's parade held last Wednesday morning.

"It was probably one of the largest we have ever had," he said. "It was an hour and a quarter long, it's just too bad it was so cold."

One thing the Ag Society would like to see changed is the midway rides and entertainment. Bird said some criticism was received regarding this year's midway.

"We are going to try for a larger one next year, but one just wasn't available this year."

Fair organizers are still busy compiling results from the fair, which is the largest in the county. Bird said final results in all categories will be available after the Ag Society meeting scheduled for this Thursday.

Watch next week's Review for those results.

Teacher to bring forestry issues to classroom

David Bowers, a grade six teacher at Olds Elementary School, was one of 57 teachers who went "back to school" this summer to learn more about our environment.

It was all part of the 1992 Fellowships in Environmental Education Program, where educators were enrolled in one of two 12-day institutes that introduced them to current and controversial issues related to the environment and economy of Alberta and Canada.

Bowers, along with 29 other teachers took part in the Forestry Education Institute which ran from July 12 to 24. The program travelled across Alberta to Calgary, the Kananaskis, Hinton/Blue Lake, Edmonton and Lac La Biche, helping teachers gain a better understanding of forestry issues, as they become more complex and relevant than ever before.

Bowers and the other forestry "fellows" dealt with concerns about air and water quality, wildlife habitat protection, conflicts between land uses, and the relationship between forestry and sustainable development, among others. Teachers often learned hands-on through tours, workshops, and activities such as water studies, tree and leaf inspections, a helicopter ride over the Kananaskis, and a look at the latest computer technology used in the forestry industry.

The Fellowships, organized by FEESA (Friends of Environmental Education Society of Alberta), stressed a bias-balanced approach to learning. Presenters were drawn from industry, government, the science and research community, and from environmental interest organizations, so that teachers could make their own, informed judgements about the issues, after hearing about them from all sides.

In this way, FEESA hopes to bring forward a group of educational leaders with the knowledge and resources necessary to incorporate bias-balanced environmental education programming into their classrooms and to set an example for other educators.

Forty-seven educators from across Alberta and 10 from across Canada were selected to take part in the Fellowships, which also included an education institute on the issues of atmospheric change (July 26 to August 8).

This is the second year that FEESA has organized the Fellowships. The society is already planning for programs in 1993 including institutes in waste and water, both of which will be offered in March and four institutes for the summer: forestry, atmospheric change, sustainable development, and science, technology and society.

SUNDRE / WESTWARD HO NEWS

Major road paving project scheduled

Alberta Transportation and Utilities will call for tenders for a major road paving project in the Sundre area, Minister of Transportation and Utilities Al "Boomer" Adair and Olds-Didsbury M.L.A. Roy Brassard announced recently.

The project involved final paving on Highway 22 from the junction of Highway 27, west of Sundre, for 16.4 km to the junction of Secondary Highway 587. Also included is the construction of base pavement and final paving on a local road in the Municipal District of Clearwater from south of the Caroline Shell Gas Plant for 4.6 km to the junction of Highway 22.

Adair said: "We are tendering these two separate jobs together in order to save money. The project will bring both of these sections to their full design strength and make them smoother and safer."

Brassard said: "Improving these sections will assist in the delivery of construction components to the new Shell Gas Plant at Caroline. These roads also carry considerable logging traffic to and from the Sundre Mill. The job is scheduled to begin this fall, for completion next spring."

Cremona Fall Fair and Trade Show coming soon

Cremona's Annual Fair & Trade show will be here before we know it! The Cremona & District Agricultural Society have been making plans for a fun day for the whole family. The Cremona Arena should be packed with interesting and fun displays on Saturday, Sept. 19 with hay, horticulture, grain, pet shows, Trade Fair and Cattle Exhibits featured as well as stage entertainment and draws. Weather permitting, free hayrides will be offered.

The Trade Show promises to be informative with a number of booths already spoken for. Exhibitors have been pleased with the reasonable rental rates offered. As of this printing, some booths are still available, but should be arranged for as soon as possible.

A Cattle exhibit is on tap as well, with breeders from a variety of breeds taking part. Pens are also still available.

Entries will soon be taken for the Hay, Horticulture, Grain, and Pet Shows of the Fair.

Members turn sod

Members of the Cremona Congregational Church dedicated their church building site to the glory of God when they turned the sod on Sunday, August 9, 1992.

After the regular service of worship held in the Gold and Silver Centre at 10:00 a.m. and a tasty potluck lunch, a group of about 75 enthusiastic folk, with shovels in hand, made their way to the building site. Led in prayer by Rev. Frank Cummins and encouraged by each other, the members dug a shovel into the ground and lifted some dirt to represent their willingness to work together on a building where faith in God and fellowship with each other may be nurtured.

The Cremona Congregational Church held a Vacation Bible School in our village in July and plans are underway for Sunday School to resume Sunday, September 13, 1992. A program of Bible based lessons is provided for children ages 4-16 during the hour of worship beginning at 10:30 a.m. Sundays at the Gold and Silver Centre. Supervision and nursery facilities are available for babies and younger children. Baby carriages and wheelchairs are easily moved into the Gold and Silver Centre to allow everyone to enjoy the service of worship.

Summer Fun notes

Sylvan Lake Waterslides Trip

The popular recreation program designed for children ages 3-12 is completing its final week. The summer is almost over and the program is going out with a SPLASH! Wild water games and a trip to the Sylvan Lake Wild Rapids Waterslides will be the grand finale of the summer. There is still room for children to sign up for the trip tomorrow, August 19. It is for all children 6-12. You may also want to sign up for our End of the Summer Party on August 21.

Last week, the children celebrated being Canadian. They completed the final week of the Library program's investigation into the kidnapping of Canadian pride. Some of the 3-5 year olds were lucky enough to visit the Fire Department.

If you wish to register for any of the remaining days of Summer Fun, please do so at the Town Office or for more information call 335-8377.

Golf

gone any faster. Good golf etiquette is the answer--something we were fulfilling but not recognized for.

If people insist on groups of 1 or 2, they should pay extra, but not expect to disrupt the course pace by moving too fast. They should be considered the exception, not the rule, and should not be given priority.

If rules are to be the all and end-all, let's enforce all of them as well as the spirit of the game to ALL people, not just some of them. The objectives of management should be to encourage new members and paying guests, maximize course efficiency, respect individual's rights, and provide an enjoyable and relaxing atmosphere.

We should be granted the right to practice the game of golf, have fun, and not be subjected to harassment as long as we are courteous and respectful of others.

I'm concerned about the lack of consideration, fairness and respect that my group received. We are all long-time supporters of the golf course, and long-time residents.

Golf courses are not just for professionals. Everyone has to learn sometime, and can not be expected to zip through at maximum speed according to your own personal preferences to group sizes and teammates.

What am I?

The following poem is a guessing game. Read carefully and try to determine who the "I" is.

I am a thing that some can buy,
But none can do without.
I am a gift God gave to man,
I believe without a doubt.

God made me before the animals,
And confined me to the earth.

I can't go high in the sky,
Before I lose my worth.

If I were taken up to heaven,
All flesh on earth would cease.

But with my help and other things,
All life does now increase.

The Scriptures I cannot believe,
If right or wrong I can't conceive.

Though in God's Book my name's not found,
But even then I was around.

If you would take me from your room,
You would soon be full of gloom.

For you would soon faint dead away,
And never live another day.

I burn real hot when I'm on fire,
If that's not true then I'm a liar.

I'm in the wind and water too,
I'm in the stream and in a slough.

I have no will power of my own,
I'm pushed about where winds are blown.
Some cannot cut without me now,

In early times they didn't know how.

If you would live to one hundred and five
I would help to keep you alive.

And so my friend go take a snooze.

Then mull around all of these clues.

And if you do not know by then,

I'll have to take again my pen.
And write a few more clues for you

Neath cloudy skys that are seldom blue.

(If you can guess what "I Am"—give The Review a call—the first correct guess wins a prize! If you can't guess yet—watch for more clues in next week's edition.)

New business unit focuses on special crops

What sector of the agricultural industry has experienced the most rapid growth over the past 5 years? Special crops, says Alberta Pool's Blair Roth.

Growth has been so rapid that Alberta Pool has responded by creating the Special Crops Business Unit (SCBU); Roth was recently appointed Manager.

Stationed in Lethbridge, the SCBU is starting out small. It presently employs Roth, one trader, a couple of support staff plus four to five personnel at the Lethbridge processing centre, but their business has the potential to benefit thousands of special crop growers throughout the province.

The establishment of a specific business unit dedicated to special crop production surfaced after Alberta Pool realized success with a similar concept—Camrose Seed Business Unit established in 1991.

"We saw the success of the Seed Business Unit and the opportunity it provided to focus your efforts and build a team approach," explains Roth. "It's particularly applicable to special crops because we're just a little different kind of business. The unit approach is very useful for us because we can get the team thinking the way we should be thinking in special crops rather than thinking like we would if we were dealing in the more traditional crops like grains or oilseeds."

The primary function of the SCBU is to obtain, clean and ship special crops from Alberta to both domestic and international customers. On the marketing end, the unit works closely with XCAN Grain and is integrated into the XCAN system.

Among the crops handled by the SCBU are peas, lentils, mustard, safflower, canary seed and spice crops. Roth explains that certain commodities are almost exclusively obtained through production contracts with Alberta farmers, but there are other commodities the SCBU spot-buys through the elevator system.

The SCBU has a number of objectives as it heads into its inaugural year, but the basic objective is to provide Alberta farmers with a stable, aggressive, service-oriented source for marketing special crops in Alberta. The establishment of the unit itself will go a long way towards improving the services and options available to Alberta farmers in the area of special crops marketing.

"We expect to be able to react more quickly to farmers' needs," says Roth. "The unit is very small, tightly coordinated, and very close to the action. When there are things that need to be done, our structure makes it easier for us to react right away."

Because the special crops sector is relatively new to the agriculture industry, there is still considerable growth potential. The largest market activity in the field at present involves feed peas, and Roth says there appears to be reasonably good market strength over the next while. Most of the feed peas sourced by the SCBU are shipped for export in the EC, particularly through the ports of Antwerp and Rotterdam. Although feed peas is one of the unit's star performers, Roth says the SCBU is interested in pretty much any special crop that farmers would like to grow and market.

"Special crops are expanding throughout the province and, as our unit becomes established, we'll be looking to develop projects across Alberta," says Roth. "We are always looking for ideas and if there are farmers out there looking for a new service, I would encourage them to give us a call. For the SCBU, flexibility is the name of the game. If something new comes up, we would like to hear about it."

Target returns unchanged

The Canadian Dairy Commission today announced that the target price for industrial milk and the support price for skim milk powder will remain unchanged for the beginning of the new dairy year.

On August 1, 1992, the target return to producers for industrial milk will be maintained at $49.76 per hectolitre of milk containing 3.6 kilograms of butterfat. The support price for skim milk powder will stay at $3.304 a kilogram, and the processor margin at $7.52 per hectolitre.

To the target return of $49.76 per hectolitre is added $0.02 as a processor contribution to a rebate fund for food manufacturers using dairy ingredients, and $0.08 to cover the carrying charges associated with normal stocks of butter for the domestic market, to arrive at a final target price of $49.86 per hectolitre.

The butter carrying charges, which are collected from the marketplace and levied back from producers, were reduced from $0.14 to $0.08 per hectolitre. At its July meeting, the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee recognized that less butter is required in Canadian Dairy Commission stocks to meet domestic demand. This, along with lower interest rates, has resulted in the overall drop in costs, which are reflected in a decrease to the support price for butter from $5.331 to $5.317 per kilogram.

The Canadian Dairy Commission sets the target price for industrial milk and the support prices for butter and skim milk powder, after receiving advice from its Consultative Committee. This Committee, which represents milk producers, processors, further processors and consumers, reviews data and makes a recommendation to the Commission.

The target price for industrial milk is based on actual surveyed costs of production and provides a return for producer labour and investment. These costs showed a slight decrease, as did the calculated processor margin. The Commission felt the decreases did not warrant lower target returns, especially in light of the fact that, on August 1, 1991, an increase in the target price and the processor margin was capped below the level indicated by cost data.

The cost of production mechanism is currently under review by the Consultative Committee. Until changes are in place, the Commission will rely on the historical approach used since 1988. This mechanism allows for adjustments, if data available in the future were to indicate a different price level.

Reduce frost with timely canola swathing

"In some areas the 1992 canola crop is shaping up to be an outstanding one," says Nick Underwood, Crop Production Coordinator, Canola Council of Canada. "However, farmers may still face one last hurdle before getting it safely into the bin—frost."

Delayed crop development resulting from cool growing conditions this summer has substantially increased the potential for frost damage.

Frost affects immature canola by fixing chlorophyll in the seed. This produces a green color in the oil component of the seed which is difficult and, costly for canola crushers to remove. As a result, the price offered for frost-damaged canola seed is heavily discounted.

"You're allowed no more than two percent green seed for a Number 1 grade and no more than six percent green seed for a Number 2 grade," says Underwood.

Farmers can take some precautions in order to protect the profitability of their canola crop if frost is forecast. Fall frosts rarely freeze to ground level. A swathed crop will not only lie below the coldest night temperatures but much of the seed will benefit from the insulating qualities of the swath and residual heat in the soil. As a result, frost-fixed chlorophyll can be avoided to a large extent.

If canola is swathed early (0 to 10 percent seed color change), there may be a slight reduction in yield and a small reduction in oil content.

"If frost does become a factor in this fall's harvest, canola growers may be better off to swath early and take these risks rather than have frost-damaged seed. You can easily lose half the value of your canola crop in a bad frost," says Underwood.

The frost factor aside, canola growers are better off to swath earlier than later, according to Underwood. That's because the window of opportunity at optimum seed color change is only about two days long. Starting to swath a little on the early side means that the maximum amount of crop will be cut at the optimum time.

"Combining too early can cause green seed. Swathing too early doesn't," says Underwood. "When in doubt, swath."

Pulse acreage at record levels

Alberta farmers have seeded record levels of dry bean acreage this year, an estimated 28,000 acres. "Some feel that the Statistics Canada estimate understates bean area in the province by a couple of thousand acres," says Al Dooley, an Alberta Agriculture market analyst. Relative to the U.S. however, Alberta is a small player in the edible bean market he adds. However, current projections are for a two to four cent per pound improvement on average over prices in 1991-92. Lentil acreage has set a new Canadian record this year, up 16 per cent from 1991 to 685,000 acres. "This large acreage suggests another year of relatively weak prices," says Dooley. "However, there is the wild card of the weather. So far, cool and wet weather in many areas has been far from ideal for lentils, but if a more normal drying pattern returns, yields could be excellent."

Oilseed markets weak

Currently oilseed markets are both technically and fundamentally weak says an Alberta Agriculture market analyst.

"Oilseed markets declined in July, and the near term outlook for prices isn't encouraging," says Al Dooley.

Canola futures went down by more than $15 per tonne (basis the September contract) during July. August soybean futures declined by more than 50 cents per bushel, as an excellent U.S. soybean yield is predicted.

Dooley also notes August is a key month for soybeans and the next few weeks will be important to yield potential. "Conditions suggest that record breaking yields are a definite possibility, so the short term price outlook is negative. Barring a change in the next few weeks, prices could remain under pressure well into the fall."

However, supplies at the world and U.S. level are expected to be in line with usage. "This suggests, over the longer term, prices will have to rise to ration supplies smoothly over the crop year and encourage new seeding in the southern hemisphere," he says.

The declining and already weak oilseed market offers relatively little in the way of marketing alternatives Dooley adds. "If your outlook is for a continuing drop in prices, pricing some new crop may be a good strategy. If you feel that upside potential is greater than downside risk, you may want to wait this weak market out."

"Good pricing opportunities did turn up in late spring, and hopefully producers did price a portion of their expected production then," he adds.

Statistics Canada estimates Canadian canola area at 7.7 million acres, virtually unchanged from 1991's 7.8 million acres. Canadian canola production in 1992-93 is estimated by the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) at 4.10 million tonnes compared to 4.15 million in 1991-92.

Cubed hay shipments to Japan increasing

Canadian cubed hay shipments to Japan increased 23 per cent during the first five months of 1992 compared the same period last year. Canadian shipments into Japan totalled almost 87,000 tonnes between January and May, versus 70,000 tonnes the previous year. Growth in compressed hay shipments to Japan has also been impressive says Al Dooley, an Alberta Agriculture market analyst. Over the same five month period, Canadian shipments totalled about 19,000 tonnes compared to 11,000 in 1991. Most of the product is timothy hay. Canadian product, however, still accounts for less than five per cent of the total volumes imported to Japan. Dooley also notes cube prices are expected to strengthen through the fall and winter.

Bergthal Mennonite report

By Erna Goerzen

Daily Vacation Bible School at Bergthal Mennonite Church during the week of August 3-7 was attended by 76 children from the surrounding communities and by visitors from Calgary, Lethbridge and Saskatchewan. Activities and Bible instruction were provided for children from nursery to grade 6. Knowledge of God and His people, His Word and applying it to life were taught. One group focused on getting to know about the Bible, its origin and writers, and becoming familiar with its content. The learning was reinforced by stories, skits, drama and crafts. A lively outdoor program at recess and mid-morning snack gave a fun-time break in the learning.

Highlighting each morning was singing and worship time. Karla Janzen led the children in the learning of a Son Mountain Musical which they ably performed in the closing program. A painting by Henry Goerzen formed the backdrop for the musical and the week's worship activities and skits.

Connie Neufeld, Sylvia Derksen and Karla Janzen administered the Vacation Bible

School with a staff of 10 teachers and various helpers who all helped to make the week a meaningful experience.

Craft time

The grade six class under the direction of Gay Best at the Daily Vacation Bible School. Along with Bible instruction, students also made crafts and put on skits.

OBITUARIES

CHANDLER

Margaret Helen Chandler (McDonald) was born August 31, 1935, on her parent's farm in the Springside community west of Didsbury. She was the eighth child in a family of 11.

On November 25, 1955, Helen married Lorne Chandler of Didsbury and they settled on their farm in the Zella district. In 1977 they sold their dairy and built a new home on an adjacent quarter, where they have resided since.

Helen was always a very hard worker. When their power was supplied by a wind charger, the sound of the wind picking up in the night would get her from bed at two or three in the morning to do the ironing. As well as caring for the home, Helen did her share of the farm work. During the dairy years, when the automatic milkers failed, she would be found alongside her husband, milking the cows by hand, something she did as a child on her parent's farm. Each spring she looked forward to putting in an enormous garden and enjoyed the subsequent tending of it. Her home was the center for family get togethers. The coffee was always on and the table was always laden with good things to eat. Her care for her family was evident in the variety and quality of everyday meals, even during the busiest seasons of the year.

Helen took seriously her task of raising and nurturing her three children. They knew she ached with them in their hurts and pains, felt their failures, shared their sorrows and rejoiced in their triumphs.

She encouraged her children to know the value of hard work, but also to find fun in the midst of that work. The toil of bringing in garden produce would be brightened when she would instigate a rhubarb leaf fight or start tossing pea pods at her little co-workers.

An invitation to the children to attend Sunday School began 25 years of faithful attendance at Bergen Missionary Church. Helen and Lorne gave their lives to Christ at an altar call under the "big tent" at James River Bible Camp. We cherish the memory of standing on the banks of the James River as Rev. Clifford Hallman baptized both Helen and Lorne.

Helen had a remarkable memory, even the smallest details did not escape her. Her sense of humor and thoughtfulness will always be remembered.

Helen went to be with her Lord and Saviour on August 10, 1992. Her courage and sense of humor in the face of cancer was an example to us all.

She was predeceased by her father, John R. McDonald in 1974, her mother Clara McDonald in 1985, her brother Donald in 1945, her sister Clara Thornton in 1956, and her sister Joan Tighe in 1967. She will be sadly missed by her loving husband Lorne, son Don and his sons, Ben and Cody and their mother Jan, daughter Karen Lynn and her husband Bruce, their children Amy and Stephen, and son Tom. Also mourning her loss are her brothers; John McDonald and wife Lara, Jim McDonald and wife Shirley, Robert McDonald and wife Pat, her sisters; Jean Zack and husband Frank, Mary Thompson, Shirley Johnston and husband Ken, Anne Thornton and husband Keith, as well as the Thornton and Tighe families, and numerous nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held August 13, 1992 at 2 p.m. from the Bergen Missionary Church with the Rev. R.W. Cheesmur officiating.

Active pallbearers were: Russ Chandler, Dan Chandler, Keith Thornton, Kerry Thornton, Greg Johnston and Ron Johnston.

Honorary pallbearers were: Marie Mill, Betty Josephson, Betty Webber, Donna Dole, Betty Waldroff, Leone Baughman, Isabel Johnston, Ferrell Haug.

Interment at Bergen Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be given to the Canadian Cancer Society.

Mountain View Funeral Chapels, Olds, entrusted with arrangements.

THERE'S NO ALTERNATIVE TO CONCRETE

Concrete is the basement building material with all the advantages

It's a proven performer. Rugged tough. Durable. A concrete basement will never burn or rot. And concrete is safe. Quality-controlled, concrete needs no toxic chemicals which may be hazardous to building occupants.

Concrete is an energy-wise choice.
A concrete basement needs little heat or air conditioning. And concrete walls are easily insulated.

Economically, concrete is a good investment. A concrete basement will add years of life to the foundation and considerable dollars to the resale value of your building.

Add up the advantages. There's simply no alternative to quality controlled concrete. The best basement building material.

Quality Doesn't Cost
- It Pays!

PERSONALITIES

Local raises champions

By Janice Harrington

No one ever told Roger Leclaire that a young man from Didsbury couldn't clean up nationally.

So when Leclaire started breeding Clydesdales on his farm northwest of Didsbury, he started with the idea of breeding only the best.

"I started with 3 mares, all half-sisters from Quebec," he said. "And all of them had bloodlines to breed on."

And breeding for success has certainly paid off for Leclaire and his wife Penny who own and operate Green Leaf Farms. Over the past while their horses have captured titles across the continent, including U.S. National Champion Stallion, numerous state champion titles, and one of his most recent accomplishments, both the Grand Champion Stallion and Grand Champion Mare at this year's Calgary Stampede.

"The last time that happened was 26 years ago," Leclaire said. "And the funny thing is that it was the stallion's [who took Grand Champion] grandparents who did it."

The pride Leclaire takes in his Clydesdales is obvious, as is his love for the animals which he first came into contact with on his father's and uncle's farm back in the 1940's and 50's.

"They had really good stock and I decided to get in it as well," he said. "There was a period when we didn't have any, but when I made the decision, the opportunity was there to do good."

Leclaire currently has about 20-25 Clydesdales of his own on the farm along with 8 to 10 geldings he is in the process of training for show. The geldings, many of which come from his farm, belong to Florida's Live Oak Plantation, for whom he works part time. He was offered a job as show help when he sold Live Oak a gelding 2 years ago. That gelding has gone on to become the U.S. National Champion.

Leclaire spends most of his summer showing at all the major western fairs in an effort to promote his breeding stock. He has captured a number of titles and currently has horses bred at Green Leaf in 23 states and 6 provinces, several of which now hold state championships. His winters are spent foaling, breaking and training.

While it may seem like breeding Clydesdales take up most of Leclaire's time, it hasn't stopped him from venturing into other areas, like Dalmatian breeding and the expansion of his own family (Leclaire and his wife are expecting their first child later this month). But don't let the sidelines fool you, Clydesdales are still very important as shown by his hope for his newly born child.

"Do I want this child to get involved in the business? You bet."

Reunion held

A Howard reunion was held Saturday, Aug. 1, 1992 at the Didsbury 5-0 Club.

Howards came from Calgary, Vancouver, 100 Mile House, Rimbey and Ponoka and enjoyed a pancake breakfast at 10:30.

They had a fun ball game in the ball diamond in the afternoon and a loud cheering fan for the winners.

Supper was served at 5:30, consisting of roast beef cooked to a turn, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, vegetables, pies of several kinds and a large birthday cake.

A trained riding horse was also on hand so all the grandchildren had a ride plus some adults also. It was a wonderful sunny afternoon to be enjoyed by all. Topping it all off, we were served "homemade ice cream" afterwards.

Approximately 100 Howards attended the reunion.

Champion breeder
